and pictures.

Don't forget there are two complete shows tonight.

Fine Feathers Coming to the Davis. The opportunity to see six promin-nt stars in a single cast and to see the biggest dramatic success of the day almost direct from Broadway, as will be the case when H. H. Frazee's all star production of "Fine Feathers" comes to the Davis theatre, Tuesday, April 14th, has brought forth thous-ands of inquiries, and the engagement wilf doubtless be as great a success financially as it is sure to be artistical-

Matines as usual this afternoon at 2.30, all seats 10 cents.

For next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday there will be another five tot vaudeville show and feature poto plays consisting of five first class acts and Our Mutual Girl will also be sown on Monday. Watch Monday's Bulletin for a detailed list of the vaudeville wand pictures.

Satan puts before Adam and Eve and others in the very early days of the Bible, and then shows how Satan was working in medieval days and finally shows how he is working at the present day right in our midst.

On next Monday and Tuesday, Alexander Dumas' novel the "Three Musketeers' will be shown here in six reels of refined thrills. It is claimed to be the crowning achievement of American Film productions. The production closely follows the dramatic version of the celebrated melodrama with the exception of one or two with the exception of one or two scenes which might be a little offen-

POETRY

THE EASTER WORD.

They say that Eastertide is near,
That all the world rejoices;
What reck to me, who could not hear
The happiest of voices?
Let they whose hearts are joyous singt
Deep buried lie my hopes of Spring.

O prisoned spirit, cease to mourn!
Forego this bleak dispairing;
Who hath not tasted woe foriorn,
On bitter vigil faring?
For each, some time, Gethsemane,
And road that climbs sad Calvary.

For each, while friends and lovere sleep,
And comrades jest, unknowing,
In tragic loneliness to weep
The seeds of earlier sowing;
To yield, with poignant grief and pain,
High hopes that may not come again.

For each, with brave but breaking heart.
To face the world's displeasure,
And, coldly crucified apart.
Earth's fickle bliss to measure;
To drain, close shut in darkened tomb,
The lees of seeming death and doom.

But then for each, the trial borne, Love's wonderful sweet story, With crown of joy for crown of thorn, The Resurrection Glory: And angel hosts to roll away The stone that holds back Easter Day.

There is no rapture so complete
As that which conquers sorrow.
There never dawns a day so sweet
As banished trouble's morrow;
In storm-swept skies the rainbow
gleams,
And Spring is born of wintry dreams, Long barred to simple gladness
Of Easter joy take fullest toll—
'Tis God's own cure for sadness.
And they who with their Lord have died.

Infant mortality in Afghanistan is very heavy I am told by a leading medical missionary in Peshawar that, in his opinion, probably about one-half the children born in the country die before reaching the age of three years. There are no special plains exercised in the country to prevent such mortality, and the wandering and generally insanitary mode of life and the small attention paid to women and infants at childbirth account for
